

Creativity Awards

RFA 11-04: CIRM Creativity Awards

The California Institute for Regenerative Medicine (CIRM) recognizes the value of supporting educational programs to realize its scientific mission. The CIRM Creativity Awards will support summer internship programs that introduce high school students to stem cell science and related fields, expose them to cutting edge medical research, foster their creativity and promote stem cell education and awareness amongst them. The Creativity Awards program is also intended to educate and broaden the participation in stem cell research by young individuals representing the diversity of California's population, including those hindered by economic constraints. The CIRM Creativity Awards will augment established summer high school science internship programs run by California academic and research institutions that conduct stem cell research. These programs will provide science education and research experiences for California high school students during an approximately 8-week summer internship. CIRM-supported students will participate in supervised, research activities in laboratories engaged in stem cell and developmental biology research.
