

Therapeutic Translational Research Projects

Objective

The mission of California Institute for Regenerative Medicine (CIRM) is to accelerate stem cell treatments to patients with unmet medical needs.

The objective of this initiative is to create a highly competitive opportunity for promising stem cell-based projects that accelerate completion of translational stage activities necessary for advancement to clinical study or broad end use for any one of the following product types:

- TRAN 1: Stem cell-based therapeutic candidate
- TRAN 2: Diagnostic based on stem cells, or critical for stem cell based therapy development or use
- TRAN 3: Medical device (non-diagnostic) for a stem cell-based therapy or critical for stem cell based therapy development or use
- TRAN 4: Novel tool that addresses a critical bottleneck to the discovery or development of stem cell-based therapy

Project outcomes, allowable activities, and what qualifies for each of the above product types are described in the corresponding Appendices: A, B, C, and D. The overall application and review process and general requirements for all product types are described in main document.
