

Communications Update

Amy Adams

September 25, 2025

Who is signing CIRM's song?

- Official communications
- CIRM Team
- Board members
- Scientists
- Patients
- Legislators

Excitement

Delivery

Legislators

Stories

- Funding announcements
- Patient stories
- CIRM profiles
- Research and clinical trial stories
- Videos
- Webinars

- Newsletters
- Emails
- Social media
- 1:1 meetings
- Presentations
- Website

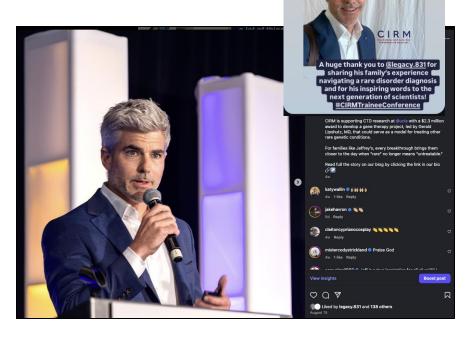

Patient & Trainee Stories

To all the young researchers from California Institute for Regenerative Medicine (CIRM) and throughout the world —borrow my optimism, harness your beginner's mind, and go find the cure.

CIRM COMPASS scholar Maya Singh shares how the program helped paved the way for her career as a physician

AUGUST 27, 2025 / CALIFORNIA INSTITUTE FOR REGENERATIVE MEDICINE (CIRM) / EDIT

Written by Holly Alyssa MacCormick

Image Credit: Maya Singh

Many paths can lead to a career as a physician. For undergraduate Maya Singh, the road to becoming a doctor begins at a laboratory bench in the University of California, Berkeley.

"I believe that being a part of research is a huge step toward being a practicing physician," said Singh.

Discussion

What are we missing?

Thank You!